

Teach Young Minds the Power of Data

A Free Online Course for Early Career Primary Teachers in Scotland

Help your pupils become confident, data-literate problem solvers—through play, sorting, storytelling, and real-world activities!

What'll you gain?

-  Strategies to teach core data concepts to early learners
-  Play-based, tangible learning activities
-  Mentoring from experienced primary teachers
-  Certificate of completion
-  Access to a supportive teacher network

Duration:

8 weeks (2 hours per week)

Mode:

Fully online (Moodle)

Cost:

Free

Who it's for:

Student teachers and probationary primary teachers in Scotland

Register Now - Limited Places Available!

or <https://edin.ac/4dLhFGh>

Contact:

Mustafa Ciftcioglu, PhD Student
Moray House School of Education and Sport, University of Edinburgh
s2452324@ed.ac.uk

Note: This course is part of a PhD research study at the University of Edinburgh. Participation involves surveys/interviews and is fully GDPR compliant. Your participation will directly contribute to shaping future data education in schools.

Supported by
Data Education in Schools Project

